This Thursday was the start of the face-to-face meeting period of the HydroAsia 2010. For the introduction ceremony all members and participants were invited to the World City Water Forum Infracworkshop 2010 in the Songdo Convensia Center. After introductory speeches of the head of organization board, the president of the University of Incheon and high rank officials of Incheon the individual team presentations started.

All members of the green team finally meet for the first time and we were able to finally put faces to the names. The first action however was the distribution of the different parts for the team presentation, since due to different travel and arrival times, the presentation could only be prepared by a small part of the group, whereas the single speech parts could not have been distributed up to now.

After that was sorted out and the team has presented itself to the participants of the HydroAsia 2010, the team used the remaining time to get to know each other personally.

Schedule for the next day:

As a schedule for the next day it was important to coordinate the time and place for meeting the next morning. The official working time was supposed to start at 9 am in the morning and the new members arrived in Incheon had to be introduced to the environment and different places.

Another point on the schedule for the next day is the evaluation of the current status of research and the new distribution and coordination of work and research.
